

A Guide to Printing Both Sides

- it might be different on the other side

When printing both sides of a product we strongly recommend that each side is checked for print quality at the start of the run. By adopting this simple procedure, both sides of the material can be checked and a lot of anguish can be prevented. A good guide would be to turn over and print 500 sheets from each pile - therefore within 1000 impressions, both sides will be tested.
